-There is a young lady velocipedist in Boston who, while riding, picks up two chairs, one in each hand, and carries them around the room; makes eights and curves without use of hands; makes the circuit of the room without use of hands or feet; stands on one foot on the saddle, and performs the feat of passing a hoop over the head, and manages to get through it while riding.

The money article in the New York Herald of Monday, after noticing a speculative ten-dency in the stock market, adds: Southern securities were likewise subjected to a renewal of the speculative fever, while the investment demand was occasioning a strong and buoyant market. Alabama eighths were quoted a fraction over par the first Southern bonds to give so decided a proof of Southern recuperation.

-Recently, in Belgium, the director of a circus, while performing the part of a wild beast tamer, was killed by a lioness. The regular lion tamer being ill, the circus director was so rash as to assume his duties, and having entered the cage succeeded for a time in making the lions go through the performances. Towards the close, when giving the animals raw meat, the director lost courage, and instead of keeping a firm eye on the beasts, as tamers are obliged to do, he trembled, and made for the door of the cage. This movement was fatal. A large lioness was the first to pounce upon him, and in a few minutes the unfortunate man was torn to pieces.

-A very deep interest is felt in the result of the trial of Mumler, the spirit-photographer, in New York. The testimony taken thus far goes to show the generices of the pictures and to en-tirely exculpate the defendant from the charge of fraud. W.n. W. Silver, a photographer of six years' standing, testified on Friday that Mumler came to his gallery in November hast, and that at that time he (Silver) did not believe in the spirit photographs, "I sat to him, as a skeptic, to see what he could do: he used my apparatus and materials, and there came on the plate a form which I recognized as that of my mother; Mumler had had no chance to make any preparation; have since frequently watched his processes without detecting any trick; spirit pictures have been produced when I performed all the manipulations, except that Mumler removed the cloth from the camera; have seen them produced once when he did not touch the camera at all: we were trying some collodion, and he walked away from the camera after taking off the cloth; solemnly swear there was no collusion between us; I developed the plate myself and the spirit picture came. I believe that these spirit photographs are produced by spirits by supernatural means." A large number of witness substantiated Mr. Silver's testimony, asserting that they had received likenesses of their deceased relatives and friends. -The Tribune says the Cuban movement in New York is really the head and front of the revolution against Spain. Few persons imag-ine the real strength of the cause, the large numbers of men that are associated with it, and the almost unlimited supply of money that is at their command. THE DAILY NEWS. pitals for the wounded, will before many days be startled by the revelations of the strength and proportions of the movement, and the actual terrible work of war which the Cuban exiles have been quietly, but effectively, conducting. Millions of dollars have been subscribed and expended in purchasing arms, equipments and stores. At least 20,000 of arms and equipments have already been forwarded to safe destinations on the Cuban coast, and councils of war are nightly held. Many prominent exarmy and naval officers of the volunteer service have linked their fortunes with the Cubans, and their presence in the counsels serve as a check to keep the hot-blooded Cuban patriots within discreet bounds until the proper moment shall arrive when all their force and energy will be needed to insure the success of their long cherished designs. A considerable number of volunteers have been deemed sufficiently skilled to be sent to the seat of war, and late on Thursday night last a company of sixty men and their officers were put on board a tugboat, carried to a point near Sandy Hook, and there embarked on board a sailing vessel for Cuba. This is not a sensation item, but a fact. Two weeks ago a large steamer was dispatched in ballast. She touched at a point near Cape May, and there took on board arms, equipments and stores, beside men, all forwarded from Philadelphia. Munitions and men are also collecting at Boston and several Southern cities. The Tribune adds that severai well known ex-army officers and Cubans left New York Friday evening for Boston, whence it is expected the next party will sail.

The Agricultural Convention

The State Agricultural Convention which assembled yesterday in Columbia is, as will be seen by our full telegraphic report, a body composed of influential and representative men from every portion of the State. They have gone to work with an alacrity and zeal that promises the best results. In vital action, secretion, excretion, circulaaddition to the topics that have been already suggested for the consideration of the Convention, our Winnsboro' namesake suggests the following:

1st. A new fence law, compelling the owners of stock to fence them in, is very much needed, and of all measures of assistance that government could adopt, it would help our people most, and add millions of money, both saved and made, to our resources.

2d. Some practical plan, backed by sufficient money, of introducing improved stock, and testing new varieties of seeds and fruits, should be adopted.

8d. Special attention should be given to the consideration of Ramie, and encouragement, in the way of premiums, &c., given to experiments with it, both because it can be gathered by machinerg and promises to add an unexpected value to our wornout lands, and because it can be gathered and sold four times a year, which will give our trade a perpetual life and vigor, by pouring into our country an unintermitted stream of wealth.

Our contemporary considers these points even more worthy of the attention of the Convention than the labor question, which it thinks will be settled by time.

Cheap Paper.

Among the branches of manufacturing industry for which the Southern States have marked and peculiar natural advantages, the business of paper making begins to foom up into conspicuous prominence. Already, in spite of the high rates of freight orious that some of the Southern paper mills can undersell in the New York market all competitors offering an article of the same quality. And, as the consumption of paper steadily increases, year by year, it is not likely that the facilities which the South possesses for its manufacture will lack anything that energy or capital can give to develope them to the utmost.

There are a multitude of Southern plants that afford excellent fibrous material for pulp; but none seems to be attracting so much attention just now as the okra stalk. An Alabams manufacturing company has for some time been engaged in experimenting in its use, and with eminently satisfactory results. It is claimed that the okra can be bleached to any required degree of whiteness; that the cost of reducing it to "half stuff" and pulp will not, on a considerable scale, be greater than the cost of converting rags into pulp; and that the okra paper is as soft as rag paper, and almost as that made from pure linen-thus combining in one material a great desideratum in paper making-flexibility and strength. The paper made of cotton rage requires an admixture of hemp or other material of strong fibre to give it the requisits strength; but the okra may be used sither as "hard "stock," to give strongth to any other material, or by itself alone. It will work well in combination in any desired proportion with any other stock, or it may be made to alternate with rags, as the circumstances or exigencies of a mill may at any time demand. It would seem, then, that the only point remaining for inquiry is the cest of okra stalks in comparison with that of other paper stock. This, of course, cannot be fully determined without further experiment. It may be taken for granted, however, that okra can be grown on a large scale very cheaply, and that it can be made to pay a handsome profit to the producer. and yet be sold to the manufacturer at a price so low as to enable him to reduce the cost of the manufactured article to consumers, and "take the market" even from the manufacturers of straw and wood paper. The chra plant is indigenous to the South, and with a soil moderately fertile will grow luxuriantly. It requires little skill to oultivate it. The fruit is a valuable and inoreasingly popular article of diet, and if produced in too large quantities for the table it will be found an excellent article of food for cattle and hogs. The seed is valuable and will at all times command s ready sale at good prices. It is estimated that the seed product will be ample to pay the entire expense of cultivating the plant. We trust that every Southern paper mill will give the new material a speedy and therough trial, and that our contemporaries of the press, who are so deeply interested, will give the subject their earnest attention.

We have received the April number of this excellent journal, and find it filled, as usual, with varied and interesting matter, original and selected. 'Among the editors we recognize Drs. Samuel Logan and Wm. Hutson Ford, late of Charleston, and among the contributors in the present number, Dr. R. Fraser Michel, of Montgomery, Ala., also one of our former townsmen. Dr. Joseph Jones, formerly of Georgia, now Professor of Chemistry, in the University of Louisiana, continues his observations on Hospital Gangrene, as it manifested itself in the Confederate armies. This paper was originally prepared by Dr. Jones, at Andersenville, by order of the Confederate Surgeon-General, Dr. S. P. Moore, and gives proof of great and laborious research. Dr. Jones came near losing his life in pursuing these investigations, for 'weeks, in a most pestiferous atmosphere. A very interesting letter is published in this number from Dr. F. M. Peterson, an intelligent and experienced practitioner, sojourning for a period in New York. He gives an epitome of the latest novelties in the practice of medicine; some of which, to say the least, are very surprising to the uninitiated layman. If we had not the fear of the profession before our eyes, we should be tempted to quote from this letter, and show how the New York doctors discard all medjoine in treating pneumonia. "The only remedy," says the letter, " used is an oil silk jacket, over the whole chest, anteriorly and posteriorly-applied to the surface of the body," &c., &c. The same letter also informs us that Dr. John W. Draper and his two sons, John C. and Henry Draper, (all' three professors in the New York University Medical College,) have discovered that the vital principle is a mere myth, that every phenomenon, heretofore accounted for by tion, is now referred to chemical action Professor J. W. Draper, it is said, proposes shortly to produce milk direct from grass or clover, and thus dispense with cows!

CHARLESTON BRANCH

LIFEASSOCIATION

OF AMERICA. FOR THE FOLLOWING REASONS:

ist. Because it is a home institution in each State. It is maniged and controlled by your own citizens. When you insure in the Association you know the men with whom you are dealing.

2d. Because it is the only mouled institution of the kind in the United States that leans its funds in the States from which they are derived.

2d. Because it is a purely mutual scalety, in which all policy holders have a vote in the election of its directors, and each share in its profits or exraining. It large and increasing assets belong exclusively to the policy holders.

4th. Because its rates are lower than those of most other sounds and reliable companies. And because its dividends will be larger.

5th. Because it invests its funds at high rates of interest (averaging less than seven per cent.) This makes the dividends of the Association much larger and the rates of premium smaller. One hundred dollars improved at six per cent. for fifty years will amount to $1,842 01. The same amount invested for the same time at ten per cent. will produce $11,730 09. Difference in favor of the itsm par cent. investment $9,897 08. This seems incredible, but calculate it, or refer to a compound interest table, and you will find it correct.

3th. Because you ought to insure in a successful finstitution, and the Life Association of America is acknowledged by all parties—its rivals and enemies as well as its friends and supporters—to be by far the most successful file insurance institution of its age in the United States. nost successful life to the United States.
